

Angelo Lekkas was raised in Chicago and suburban Addison, Illinois. After graduating from Addison Trail High School, he attended Illinois State University earning a teaching degree in English, Social Science, and Science. He taught middle school in Cicero and coached basketball. He then went on to teach high school in Rochelle, additionally coaching basketball, tennis and coordinating National Honor Society. While at Rochelle he earned his administrative certification through Western Illinois University and has served the G-K 424 community as principal for the past 17 years.

He is the father of three sons ages 23, 21, and 17. Over the past 18 years he has coached numerous youth baseball teams and hockey teams. Today, several former players have reached the NHL and other professional leagues around the world. Many more are currently playing NCAA. Interests away from school include playing guitar, working in the garage, and riding his motorcycle through curvy roads on beautiful afternoons.

He is currently participating in a superintendent internship and continues to seek ways to support teachers and staff as we all work together to help G-K students excel and contribute to their community.
